

Koala

Koala is an indoor chair with a gentle, enveloping design, created to respect the body's ergonomics and offer maximum comfort.

Its structure consists of a tubular metal ring that defines the seat and supports the backrest, forming a distinctive and harmonious element that highlights the shape and its potential. Developed in two versions, it is available with a padded tub-style seat, offering a softer and more refined look, or with a tubular-frame padded backrest, a more essential version with a graphic and informal edge.
