NIELS

The multifaceted architect and designer, Massimo Broglio, with his cross-cutting style, innovation and pragmatism, has designed the Edith project, which has evolved from a simple chair to an entire collection, encompassing a small table, a coat rack and shelves.The Niels table, designed for use both in residential and public contexts, may be customized in terms of height and of the shape of the top.The deconstructed frame, obtained by intersecting a round, an oval and a square leg, calls to mind the recycling of materials from different industrial processes.The tables' colour range and strong personality make these products easy to mix and match with any Trabà product.

DESCRIPTION:
Table base in solid ash with black painted metal stand or other colors on request.
