

SKIN MET 0084

The harmonious and enveloping shells in powder-coated metal tubing that define the Skin armchair - designed by Giacomo Cattani - evolve and transform to compose a real collection. A chair, a stool, two tables, low and high, and an increasing number of colors available give life to a collection of furniture for relaxation and conversation areas; geometric and welcoming textures to satisfy increasingly hybrid projects between inside and outside. The play of colors - a plus that defines TrabÀ production - can be emphasized by the multiple options in terms of nuances and fabrics for the upholstery of the shell: wide choice for indoor and outdoor, leather, faux leather to create pleasant ton-sur seats. -ton or more daring contrasting games. Skin, perfect for giving personality to sophisticated residential and contract projects: like a second skin for gardens, patios, terraces-bars, verandas, bow windows.
