MARLEN MET

by Traba

Comfort, an ergonomic shape and a hardy structure are the characteristics of the Marlen design, the new Traba chair designed by EP Studio.

Hints of a Fifties vibe can be glimpsed in the curvature of the backrest - generously padded, like the seat - and in the dynamic, light-weight 4-leg metal rod frame, which becomes bulkier and more retro in the solid ash wooden version.

Polished brass or copper add a vintage touch to the colour palette that can be mixed and matched to obtain the perfect chair for residential and tailor-made contract projects alike.

JULIE

by Traba

The warmth of reminiscing, of chats with friends; the freshness of tradition with a contemporary twist: Julie constitutes the expert revisitation of the archetypal chair, in which memory and modernity come together. The clean lines of the frame combined with the simplicity of the materials - and of the leather textures or in the stylish range of finishes- amplify the mood poised between memory and modernity.

This year Julie is joined by the version with armrests, boosting its comfort level and enhancing a collection that encompasses the all-beechwood design with seat in visible plywood, or with padded seat upholstered in fabric, velvet, eco-leather and natural leather. Leather braids in the seat and backrest, or in rope only for the backrest, are the variants that stress the purity of the shapes and the empty and full effects, creating chairs and stools that are both versatile and welcoming.

SUSTAINABILITY

'Our concern is with the entire lifecycle of our product'

HFC is committed to upholding our environmental policy and procedures.

Our manufacturing process creates minimal waste and all of our packaging and frames are 100% recyclable.

Environmental Policy: Product Content

All of our public seating lines meet the requirements of the ANSI/BIFMA Emissions Standards M7.1.2011. Many of our products utilise materials with low VOC and do not contribute to poor indoor air quality.

The MDF we use in manufacturing is produced from recycled/recovered wood fibres rather than using new wood sources. We also utilise formaldehyde-free MDF options. When new wood is used in our table tops, we use sources which are accredited in/with:

- FSC - Forest Stewardship Council (FSC® C113479)
- AFS – Australian Forestry Standard (AFS/01-31-233)
- PEFC – Programme for Endorsement of Forest Certification Schemes (PEFC™/21-31-233)

Many of our upholstery choices are made of recycled fibres and we proudly collaborate with textile suppliers who are passionate about sustainability and closed-loop manufacturing.

Manufacturing/Operating Process

Our products are designed and engineered to create and use a minimal amount of materials. The steel parts are powder coated, which enhances durability and life span of our furniture. We use only CFC-free cold cured foam in our seating lines. Our molding process creates minimal waste. We even re-use the upholstery off-cuts to protect your furniture whilst enroute.

Recycling

At HFC, recycling is an integral part of how we do business. All of our modular products can be easily disassembled and its component parts recycled. We reuse and repurpose cartons that our furniture is shipped in, reducing the amount of packaging required. The cardboard and packing materials used in our packaging contains up to 60% recycled content and are themselves 100% recyclable.

BIOH POLYOLS FROM CARGILL

Who knew soybeans could make public seats more comfortable?

HFC is pleased to become the first Australian supplier of public seating to incorporate soy-based BiOH® polyols from Cargill. BiOH polyols give visitors and passengers the opportunity to rest comfortably on a more environmentally responsible choice. Soy-based BiOH materials replace up to 20% of the petroleum ingredients typically used in foam production.
